The Atlantic Provinces Section of the AIHA is pleased to announce its upcoming Fall Workshop in Moncton, New Brunswick. As an Occupational Hygienist or other Health and Safety Professional you have to be concerned with the legal and ethical issues surrounding the work you do. When choosing laboratory facilities what should you be looking for. Where are the ethical boundaries and where is the line you shouldn't cross before violating someone's rights? These questions and more will be answered by experts in their respective fields.

Who Should Attend?

This program will be of interest to Occupational Hygienists, Safety Professionals, Occupational Health Professionals, Environmental Professionals, Laboratory Safety Officers and anyone involved in the management of occupational health risks.

The Atlantic Provinces Section has assembled a range of speakers who will discuss current knowledge in the Legal and Ethical Issues Surrounding Occupational Hygiene and Indoor Air Quality. Topics planned for presentation include:
